Comment on Exam Results

A spokesperson for Colleges Scotland said:

“Students and young people receiving their exam results today should be proud of their efforts. Some may not have received the results they were hoping for, and it’s important to know there are a myriad of opportunities available should they look to a college route to develop their skills and progress towards employment or higher education.

“Colleges across Scotland are looking forward to meeting the intake of students in August, when over a quarter of a million students will enrol across a wide choice of college courses. Colleges, sited in our local communities, have well established partnerships with employers enabling students to get the right skills and qualifications they need to find a job – and increasingly colleges are the route of choice for young people going on to university.”
