Comment on Individual Training Accounts

Commenting on the new Individual Training Accounts, Shona Struthers, Chief Executive, Colleges Scotland said:

“Colleges Scotland is supportive of any initiative that encourages individuals to access training and to develop the skills they need to progress into jobs and further their careers. The new Individual Training Accounts (ITA) give people up to £200 per year to gain an industry recognised qualification which will boost employment prospects and support sustainable growth. Colleges, as accredited ITA providers and sited within local communities, will be ideally placed to deliver this initiative.”
