Comment on Exam Results

Shona Struthers, Chief Executive of Colleges Scotland, said:

“Students across the country receiving their exam results today can be proud of their efforts and will now take the next step in their journey towards further studies and/or employment.

“Colleges are looking forward to welcoming all the new students enrolling on college courses when the new term starts at the end of August. During their time at college, students will progress towards their future careers by learning new skills, achieving qualifications, and gaining hands-on experience of the workplace. Nine out of 10 students say they are satisfied that their time at college has helped them to develop knowledge and skills required for the workplace.

“We would urge those who have not yet decided what to do next to contact their local college for advice and support. Colleges are increasingly becoming the first choice for people as there are a wide range of opportunities that lead to successful careers available at colleges across Scotland.”
